DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims, filed 3/30/2007 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 246-251, 254-258, 260-262, 265-273, 276-278, 280-281, 284-292 & 294-299 & 301-313 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Graczyk, (U.S. Pat # 5,192,999), in view of Suto, (U.S. Pat # 4,787,085).

Considering claims 246, 247, 257, 268, 269, 277, 285, 286, 298 & 299, the claimed TV system or method comprising;

'a client to receive data including at least auxiliary data & application data', is met by the workstation 10, which is a personal computer that receives various types of interactive applications via telecommunications circuitry 12, see col. 4, lines 21-40.

'a client computer to process computer code, included in the application data, to facilitate an interaction with a user'; reads on host computer 24, which is the computer that controls operation of the workstation 10, col. 4; col. 5, lines 1-40; col. 6, lines 7-32; Fig. 1. Since the workstation 10/host computer 24 in Graczyk is a personal computer, it inherently processes computer code included in any application which facilitates interaction with a user. For instance, Graczyk teaches that various multimedia applications are interactively operated by the user via the workstation 10, col. 4, lines 44-61.

'an auxiliary data processor to process the auxiliary data', reads on the multimedia circuitry 14, col. 5, lines 25-36.

'a display to display images based on at least one of the processed auxiliary data and the processed application data', is met by the monitor 26, col. 4, lines 50-67 thru col. 5, lines 1-10.

'a local computer collocated with and in communication with the client to allow the client to communicate with the local computer...the local computer comprising a stand-alone computer system', Graczyk, is directed to a computerized TV system including a host computer 24 and a TV circuit 46, within the same chassis; see Fig. 1; Abstract & col. 2, lines 10-22. The claimed 'local computer' corresponds with the TV circuit 46, which is enabled to receive TV signals from an antenna or CATV connection, col. 5, lines 64-66. The host computer 24 communicates with the TV circuit 46.

However, the tuner card 46 of Graczyk would not read on a 'local computer...comprising a stand-alone computer system'. Nevertheless Suto, which is in the same field of endeavor, teaches a system that comprises a local stand-alone computer 10f that is in communications with a TV adapter 10a, which meets the claimed subject matter, see col. 3, lines 21-61 & col. 4, lines 15-41. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to modify system of Graczyk with a stand-alone computer co-located with a client computing system for the benefit of providing the subscriber at home with more computing/game-playing/TV viewing options, as taught by Suto, Abstract.

As for the additionally claimed feature of a 'mass storage in communication with the local computer, wherein the client to enable the client is to retrieve information from the mass storage via the local computer', Graczyk teaches that the TV circuit 46 may retrieve at least graphics/video data from a laser disk player, (which reads on the claimed 'mass storage') col. 5, lines 66-67.

Considering claims 248, 258, 270, 278, 287-288 & 301, col. 9, lines 50-62 of Graczyk discloses that video signals from TV circuit 46 may be mixed with graphics/video signals from host computer 24 and stored on a disk.

Considering claims 249-251, 260-262, 271-273, 280-281, 289-291 & 302-304, the host computer 24 of Graczyk, which is a personal computer, controls the processes within the multimedia computerized TV system, including the operation of the TV circuit 46. As for the computer program received in the data, the subject matter reads on the interactive software operating on the tuner card 46 in Graczyk, which is controlled by the computer 24. Furthermore, Suto teaches that the TV adapter transmits requested data to the PC 10f, which reads on local computer to control the client.

Considering claim 254-256, 265-267, 276, 284, 292, 294-297 & 305-311, the executable code is broad enough to read on the interactive software operating on the host computer 24 of Graczyk, such as Multimedia Windows operator interface, see col. 13, lines 7-24.

Considering claims 312-313, the claimed machine-readable medium embodying a sequence of instructions that, when executed by a machine, causes the machine to perform functions that correspond with subject matter mentioned above in the rejection of claim 246, is likewise analyzed. As for the claimed, 'machine' the recitation reads on the CPU used in the host computer 24 in Graczyk.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
